

Using your Super Powers to boost your career development

... I'm gonna tell you a story ...

I'm Francisco Jordano, and I've meet lots of heroes ... and villains.

Now 'EMing' at Both live within us

Know your super powers and put them to work for your own development.

How do we grow our career?

We forget to look at what defines us.

The cast

A superhero, with lots of potential to discover

Inner villain

 Hancock

And a companion around to help us!

A team of superheroes

The plot

Creativity

Identify what you are good at!

Openness

Versatility

Patient

Honesty

JD Hancock

*Identify what you
are good at!*

JD Hancock

... find your sidekick

JD Hancock

... and what you are not good at too :(

Cultivate that relationship through feedback.

The background of the image is a dense, close-up photograph of green leaves, likely from a plant like basil or parsley, showing their characteristic vein patterns and varying shades of green. The leaves are packed together, creating a textured, organic pattern.

Whatever your super powers or kryptonite are, be open about them with your colleagues.

... and care about your allies super powers to!

FIND TEST GROW
REPEAT

Beat your inner villain and use your powers to grow your career.

We all are superheroes, and villains some times.

Thanks!

Q & A